BOSTON POST CANE PRESENTED

On Monday afternoon, Rep. Emily Saunders, Selectman Merton Brown, presented the Boston Post Cane to Miss Mina Stevens, who will be 93 on this Saturday. Miss Stevens retired as an elementary school teacher in 1953 after a career which started in 1905. She lives with her sister, Mrs. Marah Webster on Vernon Street in Bethel. Shown in the above picture are (left to right): Merton Brown, Miss Stevens, Rep. Saunders, and Stanley Howe.

In 1910 the Boston Post invested thousands of dollars to present each township in New England a gold-headed cane to be passed on to the eldest man in the town. This was later amended in the 30's to the oldest citizen.

Provisions were never made for replacing lost or destroyed canes. Bethel is very proud that they still have theirs to present to such outstanding members of the community as Miss Stevens.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The unexpected passing of Elwyn Dickey was a loss to his family, this community, and to the Manager profession, as well as to myself. His passing left a void in the daily operation of your municipal government. As your Acting Town Manager for the next several weeks it is hoped that this void can be filled to enable your Board of Selectmen to select a successor.

The Board of Selectmen, Town Clerk Merton Brown and Acting Town Manager met at the Town Office on Oct. 13 at 7 p. m. to take action on several items appearing on the agenda.

The request from several citizens at West Bethel relative to the condition of the sidewalk was discussed. There are no funds for reconstruction, but it was agreed that possibly the Highway Dept. could do some maintenance work. The Acting Town Manager is to talk with several of the abutters to obtain their opinions prior to agreeing to perform any maintenance. Also it is necessary to determine if the sidewalk is within the highway right of way, which will require contacting the Dept. of Transportation to obtain a copy of the layout of the highway through West Bethel Village.

The railroad crossing problem at West Bethel was discussed. A meeting is to be arranged later this month between the town officials, their representatives and officials of the railroad to see what can be done to resolve the problem.

Carroll Verrill appeared before the Selectmen relative to his leasing the airport. As this involves considerable discussion, they voted to hold a special meeting with Mr. Verrill on Oct. 21 at 7 p. m.

The manager informed the Board that he had written a letter to James Sewall Co. asking for a progress report on the revaluation project. Their bill for partial payment to be withheld pending the presentation of the report.

Richard Crain appeared relative to his valuation. It was determined a minor error existed in his 1975 valuation. An adjustment to be made to correct same.

Harold Carver reported to the Board in both his capacities as a Water District Trustee and Fire Chief. He presented a Fire Dept. ordinance covering the organization of the fire department for their review, which is to be presented to the voters for their consideration at the next annual town meeting.

According to the records of the Town Office, the following people have not paid their 1975 dog taxes which were due in January of this year: Eugene Brown, Richard Bennett, Peggy Baker, Dana Bean, David Childs, Stuart Cross, Frank Chapman, Rodney Hanscom, David Houston, Rodney Kimball, Mike Kaplan, George Luxton, Carolyn LeBlanc, Nancy Lord, Donald Larson, Brenda Piawlock, Charles Piawlock, Yvonne Robinson, Thomas Robinson, Albert Robinson, Sharon Sprague, Frederick Stanley, Carolyn Tyler, Robert Tift, Richard Wright.

This list is as accurate as possible. Unless notified, the Town Office does not know the status of any individual's dog.

SPECIAL MEETING OF S. A. D. 44 DIRECTORS HELD TUESDAY EVENING

The board of directors of MSAD #44 held a special meeting at the Telstar Auditorium on Tuesday evening of this week.

After discussion concerning attendance procedure at Telstar, the directors signified by an affirmative vote that they believed the board's policy and administrative regulations and guides as they pertain to the high school were adequate. Discussion covered both student attendance in school and at classes.

The board voted to refer the present "drug" policy of the district to the policy committee for review and revision.

A lengthy discussion on discipline at the school brought forth the concern of some of those present regarding present disciplinary procedure and the apparent need for closer supervision of student study habits. Assistant Principal Howard Walen commented on programs being established this year designed to assist students in establishing good study habits and related matters. He also outlined procedures followed when the administration is aware of discipline problems.

The board authorized the formation of a committee to look into, investigate and report back to the board on discipline, the philosophy and the program at Telstar. The committee is to consist of two board members, two Telstar teachers, two Telstar students, the Telstar principal and six parents. The committee is to report its findings to the board at its Dec. 1 meeting. The board instructed its chairman, John Brown of Bethel, to appoint members of the committee by the date of the next regular meeting, Oct. 20. Anyone desiring to be considered for membership on the committee is requested to contact the chairman at either 824-2444 or 824-2082, before 11 a. m. Saturday.

Board members not present Tuesday evening were: Phillip Morales, Gerald Schacter, Andover; John Gasser, Bethel; Milton Mills, Woodstock.

There will be a regular meeting of the S. A. D. 44 directors next Monday evening, Oct. 20, at 7:30 in the Telstar Auditorium.

Hathaway Reports

Sen. William D. Hathaway
A Taxpayers Bill of Rights?

Some might think—or hope—that a repeal of all federal income taxes, but in reality it is a proposal in Congress to give the taxpayer a fighting chance with the Internal Revenue Service.

The Watergate and related hearings revealed some startling things about abuses at the IRS such as misuse of personal tax data for political purposes, arbitrary audits and decisions. The seven major provisions of the Taxpayers Bill of Rights would prevent such abuses from happening again.

The first provision establishes tighter restrictions on the disclosure of tax return information. Federal tax returns are anything but confidential these days. For example, the Justice Department can obtain tax files on an individual it may be investigating on an entirely unrelated matter and data from files has been sold to credit agencies and other organizations. That would happen again under the Bill of Rights since tax returns would only be open for inspection by the taxpayer, the Treasury or Justice Departments or the President, and only in connection with a legitimate tax related inquiry. An individual could sue for damages if the IRS disclosed personal tax data without the proper authorization.

A second provision forbids the IRS from maintaining files or conducting surveillance on individual groups for political purposes that have no bearing on enforcement of the tax laws. Again, one could sue for damages if this right were violated.

Under the third provision, the taxpayer is protected from arbitrary IRS procedures regarding assessment and termination of a tax year. The first is a procedure used to take the assets of a taxpayer suddenly if the IRS has reason to believe the individual in question does not intend to meet his tax obligations—such as if he were preparing to flee the country. The second, termination of a tax year, is a recent procedure used primarily on narcotics dealers. While not used very often, these are very powerful tools. To protect the taxpayer, court must occur within 10 days at which time the IRS must show reasonable cause for taking either action.

The fourth provision of the Taxpayers Bill of Rights creates a taxpayer Service and Complaint Office within the IRS. One could finally talk back to the IRS, locate a lost check or receive answers to questions on taxes, and even seek temporary relief in special cases of IRS abuse.

The fifth provision requires the IRS to fully inform a taxpayer of his rights during any audit or tax appeal procedures. The IRS would even have to come up with understandable pamphlets discussing and explaining these rights.

The sixth provision establishes a three year pilot program providing independent legal assistance to taxpayers, something generally attainable now only by those able to afford a lawyer. Costs, if any, would be determined by the taxpayers income.

Finally, IRS would have to submit to an audit itself. The General Accounting Office, which oversees much of the federal agencies operations from a standpoint of cost and effectiveness, would be required to review a number of IRS activities and provide annual reports to Congress.

CARE IS URGED IN USE OF WOOD BURNING HEATERS

With cooler weather now in Maine, citizens should realize there is more to supplementing the heating capability of a home with a woodburning appliance than just connecting it to a chimney, cautions Col. Donald E. Nichols, Commissioner of the Maine Department of Public Safety.

Improper installation of wood-fired stoves and heaters could result in increased—rather than reduced—consumption of fuel oil, and/or a costly and tragic fire in the home," warns Col. Nichols.

Chimney Draft

According to the State Fire Marshal's Office, alteration in chimney draft, resulting from the connection of a wood-fired stove to a chimney already serving an oil-fired appliance, could easily result in uneven and wasteful consumption of fuel oil. All such connections should be checked by a licensed oil burner technician to determine if the draft is proper to efficiently serve all appliances connected to a single chimney.

Pipe Connections

Smoke pipes connecting stoves to chimneys should be made of not less than No. 24 gauge steel.

Chimneys

Defective chimneys are one of the leading causes of fires in buildings. A chimney can be inspected for flaws by lowering a flashlight on a string from the top or with a mirror poked into a connector and cleanout openings. A chimney may have to be cleaned before the lining or interior brickwork can be examined. The cleaning of a chimney flue at least yearly is recommended. One of the ways a homeowner can do this is by lowering a bundle of fire chains from the top and scraping a side of the flue at a time in pulling the bundle back up.

Soot accumulations in chimneys not only restrict the area but are hazardous when they become ignited, resulting in the most common type of chimney fire.

Inspection of a chimney from the roof should take into consideration condition of the mortar, chimney lining and flashing. From the attic, check for cracks and loose mortar, particularly under the roof. On other floors, check connections and in the basement check again for cracks, loose mortar or evidence of settling. At connector openings, check the lining as far as it can be reached with the fingers.

Used Stoves

Of extreme importance, fire safety officials point out, is a careful examination of used stoves of the water coil and water front type. Special care should be exercised to insure that the coils or fronts are not capped, thereby capable of exploding with the velocity and similarity of a shrapnel bomb when subjected to heat.

Overheating

Wood burning stoves, it should be stressed, have a prime reputation as a cause of fires involving loss of life in dwellings. They require constant attention. Left unattended, overheating results from lack of regulation of draft limiting devices. Changes in outdoor conditions which affect chimney draft also can occur at times when a stove is unattended, and an over-temperature situation from rapid burning may result.

No Liquid
Never, fire officials warn, should a solid fuel fire be "freshened" with a flammable or combustible liquid. Such a practice is another common cause of fatal fires and explosions.

Clearances

Since stoves can become red hot, a minimum clearance of 36 inches must be maintained between them and surrounding combustible surfaces, unless such surfaces are properly insulated. If mortar has begun to fall out from between the bricks, openings may be expected to develop all the way through the wall. If an ice pick or other sharp instrument can be pushed all the way through, rebuilding is indicated. Chimney tops are the most likely portions to require rebuilding. When this is necessary, the chimney should be torn down to the point where full mortar joints are found at least 18 inches below the roof.

30 Seconds WITH THE NAZARENE

Rev. Barbara Huse, Pastor
Bethel Church of the Nazarene

Did you ever get the feeling that the world was against you and you faced life all alone? They tell me that the loneliest place of all is in the city surrounded by a sea of people, yet feeling completely alone. Every once in awhile we seem to have to indulge in our own little self-pity parties. Oh no, of course not you. Some other fellow! Then comes to mind the old worn out words, "Nobody loves me, everybody hates me, I'm going out back and eat worms and die." Did you realize that some of our most noble characters found in the scriptures sometimes felt that way too. They just felt like pouting under a juniper tree or thought they were all alone in the world trying to live for the Lord. It is just then we need to realize that life is not only day by day, moment by moment but step by step. Take that step. Make it a step of faith! We used to play a game that said, Take so many baby steps, take a giant step, take a bunny hop and various other kinds of steps. Oh no, of course you do not remember but please remember this, there is one step we can all take, the step of faith, faith in the Lord Jesus Christ!

"The law of his God is in his heart, and none of His steps shall slide." Psalm 37:31.

CYCLO - CROSS RACES SUNDAY, OCTOBER 19

Cyclo-Cross races will be held on Sunday, Oct. 19, beginning at 10 a. m., just off Lover's Lane on Gould's lower field. Notices have been sent to active members of Maine's bicycle associations and are being distributed at local schools. The races will be short, challenging and fun, with separate races for different ages and types of bicycles.

What is Cyclo-cross? Cyclo-cross is scrambling with your bike. Riding along dirt paths...through fields...sometimes getting off to carry it over a log or brook.... Come and give it a try.

This event is a Horizon activity of the Bethel Bicentennial Committee.

Questions? Call Art Froberg 824-2880.

GIRL SCOUTS ANNOUNCE CHRISTMAS TOY PROJECT

Over the next month, Bethel Girl Scout Troop 569 will be fulfilling part of the requirements for their ToyMaker badge by repairing toys for pre-schoolers and wrapping them for Christmas. Those who wish to donate toys which can reasonably be repaired may leave them on the front porch at Feeney's, next to Angevine's Skidoo Sales. Donations should be made before Monday, Oct. 20.

The toys will be ready for distribution by mid-November, and may be picked up at the Bethel Town Office by any residents of Newry, Locke Mills or Bethel who would appreciate re-conditioned toys for their pre-schoolers at Christmas time.

There are 32 girls registering at this time. Please have registration money in by Oct. 23. The Troop has two leaders and will be asking help from parents who can be available for certain projects. In order that leaders can be free at 4:45 we are insisting that girls be picked up at this time at the Savings Bank or that other arrangements be made for your daughter to wait for a ride.

It is our good fortune to have as assistant leader for this year, Miss Sylvie Dussseau, student at Gould Academy, who has been very active in scouting in her native country France.

We have come up with many ideas for a good year of scouting and look forward to helping better our community and developing good fellowship among the Bethel Girl Scouts.

CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCE

still, health experts warn that unless more young children are immunized, widespread epidemics could occur once again, spreading particularly among preschool children. Anyone who remembers the polio epidemics of the 1950's, when many children died, thousands more were seriously crippled, understands the importance of immunizations. More recently, Measles and Rubella were brought under control. Before vaccines were available, Measles complications claimed hundreds of lives each year. The last Rubella epidemic took place in 1964-65 and resulted in the birth of 20,000 deformed babies and 30,000 miscarriages.

Parents are urged to check their records and make sure their children have received all their immunizations.

The oral polio vaccine begins early in life at about two months of age. Three doses are given during the first six months of age, to one year. Booster dosages are sometimes given at 15 to 18 months of age. Another dosage is recommended at school entry.

Measles, Mumps and Rubella requires only one immunization. In fact, combination vaccines are available that make it possible for one injection to provide immunization for all three diseases. The immunization is recommended shortly after the child's first birthday.

The combination Diphtheria-Tetanus Pertussis vaccine is given in four doses, beginning at about two months of age. A booster dose is given at school entry.

Letters to the Editor

Oct. 9, 1975

Dear Editor,
I read the "Buttons" article with deep enjoyment and an urge to write this letter. I am not a Snow White but I am a button in the factory with an opinion of my own.

I wish that people would stop accusing the school for what some students do! What gets me is the fact that when someone breaks a rule at Telstar, everything is at fault—too little supervision, too much free time, not enough discipline—everything save the individual who does the wrong!

Does it ever occur to anyone that a person or persons may be at fault and not the school? If a person is busted for drugs, it's the Administration's fault for "letting" kids sell them. If a person breaks a window, it's too much free time. The system's at fault, not the wrongdoers!

There are kids who get their privileges taken away because the system's at fault and not the wrongdoers. They're bitter about it. Can you blame them?
I was taught that I do things which affect someone sooner or later. I learned this the hard way in a bitter conflict this year that was mostly my fault. Many people don't care as long as they don't get caught!

Until we learn to punish the wrongdoers instead of constantly changing the system to fit them, we won't know any peaceful moments. Stop accusing the school for what a kid does! Are we going to stop the factory for those few buttons that won't stay on the assembly lines?

Sincerely yours,
Marcia L. Mills

GENERAL ALGER ADDRESSES CLASS AT GOULD ACADEMY

Lieutenant General James Dyce Alger presented a slide talk overview of the cold war with special emphasis on Latin America to a group of about 20 Gould students on Friday night. The students are enrolled in a course dealing with international relations, called Games Nations Play, which is taught by history Master Clifford Hobbs.

General Alger, no stranger to Bethel residents, was graduated from Gould in 1930 and went on to compile a distinguished record in the service of his country. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1935 and served in the Philippines and in North Africa. After the war he served various tours of duty in the United States and Europe, rising to the rank brigadier general in 1957. General Alger's decorations include the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit, and the Bronze Star from the United States as well as many others from both the United States and foreign governments.

General Alger's last assignment before retirement was as the chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board from August 1967 through July 1970, and it was from this assignment that he drew much of the background for his talk on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Gould Jr., are announcing the adoption of a brother for Susan, Brian Clarke Gould, born Nov. 26, 1965.
